The Melnikov House: A Manifesto of Low-Tech Avant-Garde

Conferencia por:
Pavel Kuznetsov

Fecha: 2 de Abril de 2025
Hora: 12.00h
Lugar: Salón de Grados
Idioma: Inglés

How can one build a "dream house" on a modest budget in a cold climate? Is low-tech architecture the solution? Can we trace the birth of architectural masterpiece from idea to realization?
Pavel Kuznetsov explores these questions through the lens of the Melnikov House (1927–1929, Moscow), an iconic monument of Soviet Avant-garde. The newly found information helps to uncover the architectural, engineering, and philosophical ideas lying behind Melnikov's ambitious plan to build an architectural manifesto in 1920s Soviet Russia. Pavel Kuznetsov, a guest researcher at the University of Kassel, the founding director of the State Museum of Konstantin and Viktor Melnikov in 2014-2022, and the author of "The Melnikov House: Icon of the Avant-Garde, Family Home, Architecture Museum" (Berlin: DOM Publishers, 2021). Since 2014 he had overseen the collections and archives of the Melnikov House and its transition from a private home to a public museum.*
