

UNIVERSIDAD DE GRANADA

Departamento de
Expresión Gráfica
Arquitectónica y en la
Ingeniería

Conferencia "The Melnikov House: A Manifesto of Low-Tech Avant-Garde"

20/03/2025

El departamento
EGAI da difusión a la conferencia titulada "The Melnikov
House: A Manifesto of
Low-Tech Avant-Garde", por Pavel Kuznetsov.

The Melnikov House: A Manifesto of Low-Tech Avant-Garde

Conferencia por:
Pavel Kuznetsov

Fecha: 2 de Abril de 2025
Hora: 12:00h
Lugar: Salón de Grados
Idioma: Inglés

How can one build a "dream house" on a modest budget in a cold climate? In a low-tech architecture the solution is clear: use the tools of the environment and the local culture to create a space that is both functional and beautiful. Pavel Kuznetsov answers these questions through the lens of the Melnikov House, a modest bungalow built in 1929 by the Soviet Avant-garde. The work found information to answer the questions of the Melnikov House and the Melnikov family. Pavel Kuznetsov is a guest researcher at the University of Kassel. The author of the book "The Melnikov House: How to Build a Dream House on a Small Budget" (2014) and the book "The Melnikov House: Use of the Avant-garde in Architecture" (2021). Pavel Kuznetsov is a member of the Russian Academy of Architecture and Construction Sciences (2021). Since 2004 he has overseen the collections and archives of the Melnikov House and its foundation for a private home to a public museum.

The Melnikov House: A Manifesto of Low-Tech Avant-Garde

Conferencia por:
Pavel Kuznetsov

Fecha: 2 de Abril de 2025
Hora: 12:00h
Lugar: Salón de Grados
Idioma: Inglés

How can one build a "dream house" on a modest budget in a cold climate? In a low-tech architecture the solution is clear: use the tools of the environment and the local culture to create a space that is both functional and beautiful. Pavel Kuznetsov answers these questions through the lens of the Melnikov House, a modest bungalow built in 1929 by the Soviet Avant-garde. The work found information to answer the questions of the Melnikov House and the Melnikov family. Pavel Kuznetsov is a guest researcher at the University of Kassel. The author of the book "The Melnikov House: How to Build a Dream House on a Small Budget" (2014) and the book "The Melnikov House: Use of the Avant-garde in Architecture" (2021). Pavel Kuznetsov is a member of the Russian Academy of Architecture and Construction Sciences (2021). Since 2004 he has overseen the collections and archives of the Melnikov House and its foundation for a private home to a public museum.

La conferencia será el próximo día 2 de abril a las 12:00h. en el Salón de Grados de la ETSAG siendo en su totalidad en inglés.

Os esperamos a todos.